ADVANCING PATIENT CARE THROUGH INTERPROFESSIONAL COLLABORATION

April 15th, 2016 - Metropolitan Hotel
April 16th, 2016 - LAU Byblos Campus

Final Program

Continuing Education Credits for Medicine, Nursing and Pharmacy Offered

WELCOME LETTER

Dear Colleagues,

On behalf of The Lebanese American University Interprofessional Education Program, it is our great pleasure to invite you to “Advancing Patient Care through Interprofessional Collaboration”, to be held on April 15-16, 2016. Day 1 will be held at the Metropolitan Hotel in Beirut and Day 2 at LAU’s Byblos campus.

This is the first conference in the region to address collaborative practice and interprofessional education in the hospital setting. International leaders will deliver state-of-the-art presentations on interprofessional education and collaborative practice on Day 1. A plenary session on the interprofessional elements embedded in the Joint Commission International (JCI) Standards will be of benefit for hospitals seeking accreditation or reaccreditation through JCI. On Day 2 presentations and workshops will focus on how to introduce collaborative practice approaches for preventing iatrogenic complications, decreasing patient length of stay, and increasing satisfaction of patients and professional staff. The interactive workshops on Day 2 will enable teams to gain hands-on experience through participation in team-based simulation activities.

Target audience for the conference will be clinicians, clinical administrators and faculty from academic medical centers and teaching hospitals throughout the MENA region. Preferably, medical centers and hospitals will send teams composed of clinicians (e.g. medicine, nursing, pharmacy, physiotherapy, dietetics, etc.), clinical administrators, and/or quality management professionals that routinely work together in delivering care in a given setting (e.g. ICU, ER, surgery, medicine). The program will enable these teams to gain knowledge of the benefits of interprofessional collaboration and provide guidance for enhancing the collaborative practice in their own setting.

We look forward to welcoming you all.

Best Regards,

Nancy Hoffart, PhD, RN
Founding Dean and Professor, Alice Ramez Chagoury School of Nursing

Imad Btaiche, PharmD

REGISTRATION

Target audience for the conference will be professionals from academic medical centers and teaching hospitals. Teams of clinicians (e.g. medicine, nursing, pharmacy, physiotherapy, dietetics, etc.), clinical administrators, and/or quality management professionals who work together to deliver care in a unit (e.g. ICU, ER, surgery, medicine) will benefit by registering as a group. First, the cost of registration will be lower. Furthermore, your team's participation in conference discussions and simulation workshops will make it easier to transfer new ideas and interprofessional care strategies to your own practice setting.
